

Ending the Session

Bringing back to every-day awareness

We're going to bring your light body back to your physical body now... just bringing your energy back to your physical form. All of your renewed and realigned and vibrant energy is returning now into your physical body.

But before you open your eyes you take note- of the expansion of your heart and the increased depth of your wisdom and knowing...and send gratitude to all who participated in your journey today.

And you are returning to your every-day awareness and consciousness. Feeling yourself return now to this room and the present day and time. Just waking up naturally and completely and fully. And you can begin to stretch and move and open your eyes when you are ready.