

Water Alchemy

Water is liquid consciousness. Humans are like batteries and we require sufficient water to operate at the higher levels of consciousness. Do not limit or restrict your client's water intake and do not limit or restrict yours!

Releasing your water is also important. Again, both for your client and you, the practitioner! Gripping or holding your bladder is not helpful as we create flow in a BQH session and you don't want to inhibit 'flow.'

Water Alchemy Script

Together create a sentence or two or three that is the client's intention for the session. If the energy in the room has already shifted as it often does... I comment on our teams gathering... I might then add this sentence: Doing this while being surrounded and supported by our combined teams is very powerful as their energy and support will amplify and broadcast this intention across vast realms of multi-dimensional reality.

And now we will set and verbally state our intention for our journey together.

We will infuse our water with this intention as well.

Bring your right hand and place it over the (glass/bottle.) and imagine if you will, a beautiful light above your crown. It can be any color. It might be more than one color. And then begin to think about the intention for today's session.

And in a moment, I will have you repeat your intention after me, and as you do, breathe in and feel your being-ness combine with the color and the light above you.

And as you speak your intention -breathe in the color and light into your head and breathe out of your mouth exhale through the mouth and follow this energy and the colors down your arm and speak the words of your intention and the colors into the water.

We are visualizing that light and that emotion and intention into the water as we invoke the I AM presence.

Okay, here we go:

Imagine the colors and light.

Breathe them in to your crown and body and breathe them down into the water.

And now we add the intention and do the same thing.

So, repeat after me:

I invoke my I AM presence and my intention for this session is: _____

And so be it.

Now, drink your water as I drink mine and the intention and the energies will flow throughout our bodies and all of our energy fields.
