

Dolores Cannon's Group Regression WorkshopSM

Part I – Visualization & Past Life Regression

(Total Time: About 1 Hour)

This is not my method that I use in my private sessions. When I do my private sessions, I work in the deepest possible level of trance where the person doesn't remember anything and they go out. I can't do that with a group, so what I do is a lighter trance level because I want you to be able to remember what you are seeing and then you can write it down. Otherwise it is like a dream and you will forget it real quickly.

This is intended to be a fun exercise. People do tend to find things they want to know, they do find information, but it's not as thorough as it would be if I was doing a private session.

There are three parts we are going to be doing. The first part we will take the entire room at one time, and we are going to go to a past life and I like for people to think about what they would like to find out. Sometimes they have things they are looking for or things wrong with them and they might want to find the cause. If you are, try to keep that in your mind. But I don't have any control of where you are going to go. You'll see what you're supposed to see.

This will work if you can visualize. Visualization is not that difficult. But some people say “I don’t know how to visualize,” they don’t know what I mean. Because they don’t understand what the word means because they say “I don’t know what you mean, I don’t SEE anything.” They’re thinking you see with your eyes, it’s not that, it’s with the mind. You know, you remember an event that happened in your life, an important day, a wedding, a funeral, a graduation. Can you see it happening again in your mind when you recall that incident? That’s the part of the mind we will be working with. It’s the part that has the memory and it can be pulled forward just by seeing it again in your head. So it’s not as complicated as people think it is but we do have some people that just are not able to see to visualize.

There are other ways to get the information. If you’re not seeing something, just go with whatever comes. Maybe you will hear something. Maybe you will have an emotional reaction, a feeling. Some people are more feeling than they are seeing. If that happens, just trust however it’s going to come into your mind. But the majority of the people are able to see pictures and even if it is something silly and it doesn’t make any sense, don’t stop and try to figure it out, just go with it and allow it to continue to flow.

The minute you try to figure it out and say “am I doing this right? It doesn’t make sense”, you’re switching over to the left side of your brain and then it’s going to stop the process. That’s the part that’s got to think and figure it out. We don’t want to be over there. We want to be on the right side of the brain. Some people say well I was seeing these things but I thought well that's not right so they just stopped the process. Whatever you're gonna get is what you're supposed to have. It will make sense later anyway so just go along with the flow.

Exercise 1: The first thing I am going to do is a little exercise to show you how easy it is to visualize.

Close your eyes and just relax and I'm going to ask you to see something. Just go with it and when you see these things, I want you to try to put action into it. Not only see the picture, but hear something. Try to hear what is going on. Put sound in it; put activity in it. Also, try to bring in smells if you can. We want to get all of your senses activated. Try to see if you can smell, if you can hear and if you can see. And, fill the scene full of details.

Ok, just relax, eyes closed and let the pictures come.

You are standing on the corner of a very busy street in a big city. There is a lot of traffic; there is a lot of noise, a lot of things going on. See the scene and fill it full of lots of details – sounds, sights, and smells. You are standing on the corner of a busy street in a big city.

(Pause 30 seconds)

Now, leave that scene and you're standing on a pier looking out at the water. It is a fishing pier; maybe there are boats on the water, maybe there are people fishing, but you are looking out at the water as you stand on a fishing pier.

(Pause 30 seconds)

Now, leave that scene and you are standing in a train station. You are on the platform of a train station. There is a train coming down the tracks. You can see it and you can hear it. Try to feel the vibration of the platform as the train comes closer and pulls into the station. You are standing on the platform watching a train come in.

(Pause 30 seconds)

Now, leave that scene and you are riding on a carousel—a merry go round. Just like you did when you were a child. You can see the horses; you can see them as they go around and around and around. You can hear the music and feel the motion as the horse you are on goes up and down and around and around. You are re-living being on the carousel again.

(Pause 30 seconds)

Alright, now, when you are ready, you are back in this room and you can open your eyes.

Was everybody able to see things?

We all have these memories in our mind. Now the first part about the busy street, could you see the traffic? Hear the noise? Some people say they can even smell the exhaust from the cars. One man said somebody was selling hot dogs and he could smell that.

But sometimes when we do this, your subconscious mind knows what we're going to do, so it already begins to fill in things that are not from our time.

I've had people start out here and they'll be seeing a city street but it will be the old fashioned cars. Or one said he saw a chariot instead of seeing cars. So your mind may be already slipping back into another lifetime.

But you could see the traffic and hear the noises? We want to activate as many of your senses as we can. Then we get everything working.

Did anyone have problems seeing anything in this?

Now the second part, about the fishing pier; were you able to see the boats and the water? Some people say they can smell the fishiness of the water in that part. Smell is the hardest sense to bring in. If you can bring that in then you are really activating everything. Sight and hearing is the easiest.

Okay the train; were you able to see the train? How many saw the old fashioned Jesse James train? Sometimes people see that and I had one person say they saw a modern train that didn't even exist and it just went shoo right through the station. and one woman said I saw myself in an old-fashioned dress standing on the platform waiting for my husband coming back from the Civil War. So see already she has slipped into a past life just by asking her to see that scene. That's what I mean by your mind may be already setting you up to begin to see things.

Just go with it, whatever happens.

The carousel is always interesting, and I've had some people say I don't think I can do this, I couldn't see the carousel, but it ended up they'd never been on a carousel in their life. Some of the younger people probably haven't been on one, a merry go round. so they never had a memory in their mind to associate it with. I like that part because when I'm watching the room some people are moving along with it. They feel the motion of the horse. and they're reliving it like that. Someone else told me I didn't like that because I always got sick on the merry-go-round. But one man had already begun a past life but he said my horse jumped off the carousel and hit a tree. and later when we got to the past life we found out that is how the man died. it was on a real horse and he hit a tree. but he was already setting it up in his mind when his horse on the carousel jumped off and hit the tree.

So there's a lot of strange things going on here. its mind association any way. but now when we get to this past life part, some people don't want to talk about what they see and that's perfectly fine. you don't have to share if you don't want to. you're all going to get your own individual personal information that you need for yourself.

I want to do one more before we start so close your eyes again.

This time, see yourself eating a meal. See the ones around you. It may be the last meal you ate today or it may be a meal of a special occasion when you had family there. But, see yourself eating a meal and see the people with you. Try to smell the food and even taste the food if you can. But you are eating a meal.

(Pause 30 seconds)

Ok, now when you're ready, you can open your eyes.

Could you see the food? Could you taste the food? That's the hardest one. Smelling and tasting are the hardest senses to activate. But, some people say they can taste it and can smell it. Did any of you see Holidays? Some people see the last meal they ate, others see the Holidays or a special occasion. One person saw Birthday and she said I don't even remember those people being there. It was a birthday when she was a child.

That is the side of the brain we are activating. That side of the brain is where the memories are and the emotions everything is in that right side of the brain. That's the one we're activating to get this going.

Now when we start this other part I don't want people getting up and moving around because that's going to be disturbing to the ones next to you. Please make sure all the cell phones are off. I don't want anything to go off like that. Because people get up and moving around they are going to bother the people next to them. There's not enough room here to manipulate like that.

The very first time Dolores did it was in New York with about 15 people. A woman walked in who was blind since birth. She had never seen anything. And I'm thinking, "Oh Boy, I'm in trouble." Then a little bit later, another woman walked in who was also blind since birth. And I said "Now I know I'm in trouble." Why did I think that? If somebody's been blind since birth, can they visualize? The experts say that it is impossible because they don't have any frame of reference, they don't know what anything looks like so they don't have anything in their mind to associate with. That's what the experts say. I told the women, "I just don't know if you will be able to do this or not, because they say blind people can't visualize." Well the one got quite indignant. She said, "What do you mean we can't visualize?" She said, "Blue is my favorite color." And I said, "Well then how do you know what things look like if you can't see them?" And the one woman said "We know from our past lives." So that was smarter than the experts. I would not have thought that.

So the memories are there, they're in their mind of what things look like even if they can't see them in this lifetime.

When we done the session, the only difference was that one of the blind women was taking her notes with a stylus poking holes in the paper instead of writing. They saw the same pictures and visions that everyone else saw. So that's when I knew if they could do it, anyone could do it. Because it went against the odds of what is supposed to happen. And one of them wanted to know why she was blind and she found out. She was a very evil ruler way, way back and she delighted in putting people's eyes out. So karma wheel goes around, now she was paying back for it. Don't expect to see horrible stuff; you will see what you are supposed to. But it is interesting that that is what she wanted to know and that is what she got. So, who's to say?

Anyone can do it if you relax and let the pictures come. If they don't, then maybe you will get it in dreams or something. I found when you do this, you open the door. The door stays open for three days. If you don't get all of your information, because this is not going to be in depth, that during the next three nights if you wanted to ask questions to get more information (like when you are going to sleep at night you're in a very relaxed state); in that state you can ask questions and you can get answers. Just anything that comes in, acknowledge it, don't question it and it's giving you the answer. Also you will have interesting dreams in the next three nights that may explain more if you don't get the information now. So we open the door, it stays open for about three days and then it closes and goes back to wherever it's supposed to be. The information is available for the next three days.

So this is just going to be a simple, light level because I want you to be conscious enough to write down what you see after we come out of it. The deep levels you wouldn't be able to. So it's just visualization, that's all it is. Trust whatever comes in. Whenever you wake up I don't want you to talk to anybody, I just want you to start writing down immediately what you found because like a dream it will just start fading away very quickly.

Okay, eyes closed and relax.

I want you to see the outside of the place where you live, house, apartment, wherever it is. You see this every day. See the outside of the place where you live.

(Pause 10 seconds)

Now, go into the place you live. See the door how you go in and go into the place that you live.

What is the first room that you come into? ...

What is in that room?

Now, go into the kitchen.

Where is the stove located?

Where is the refrigerator?

Where do you eat your meals?

Now, go into the bedroom where you sleep. The bedroom where you sleep.

What furniture is in that room? Fill it full of details.

What furniture is located in that room?

Now, look at the walls, the walls of the room.

Find a wall that does not have a door in it. a wall in the room that does not have a door. Now, make a door in the wall. Make a door appear in the wall that normally does not have a door.

Now, open the door.

When you open the door, you see steps going down, down in front of you. Walk down the steps.

At the bottom of the steps, is a long hallway going away from you. A long hallway. Walk down the hallway. There is enough light that you can see where you're going. Walk down the hallway.

In the distance, you can see at the end of the hallway, there's an opening. You can see light down there. There's an opening at the end of the hallway. Walk toward that opening. Walk down the hallway toward the opening at the end.

Now, you have reached the opening at the end of the hallway and you are standing in front of the opening. This is the doorway—the opening to the past. You know when you step through that opening; you will be in another time, another place, where there is information for you.

Step through the opening.

Now you have stepped through the opening. Are you inside or are you outside?

Become aware of your surroundings.

Look around you, see where you are.

Now become aware of yourself, of your body. What kind of clothes are you wearing? What feels right?

Are you male or are you female?

Are you young or are you old?

Become very familiar and aware of this new body.

Now, go to the place where you live in that new body. The place where you eat, and where you sleep. Stand in front of that place. What does it look like from the outside? Now go inside this place where you live.

See what rooms are there.

See where you cook your food.

Now, see yourself eating a meal. What kind of food are you eating?

Is there anyone sitting with you, around you, eating with you?

If there is anyone living with you in this place, you will see them with you now. And be able to identify their connection with you. See if anyone is sitting with you.

Alright, now leave that scene.

I want you to see what it is you do. How do you spend the majority of your time? Do you have a job, an occupation? What takes up the majority of your time? See yourself doing it now.

(Pause 30 seconds)

Alright, now leave that scene and move to an important day. A day that you consider to be important, when something important is happening. You are moving to an important day. You are there NOW. What's happening? What do you see?

(Pause 30 seconds)

Now, leave that scene and move forward again to another important day; another day when something else is happening that you consider to be important. You've gone forward to another important day. What is happening now and what do you see?

(Pause 30 seconds)

Alright, now leave that scene and let's move forward one more time; another important day. A day that you consider to be important, when something else is happening. It's another important day. What do you see now and what's happening?

(Pause 30 seconds)

Now leave that scene and I want you to move forward to the last day of your life in this lifetime we're looking at. the last day of your life and let's see what happens to you. It won't bother you at all. You can watch it as an observer if you want to. You've gone forward to the last day of your life. You can see what is happening to you on that day. It's the last day of your life in that lifetime.

(Pause 30 seconds)

Now, whatever has happened has already happened and you are on the other side of it. You are out of the body and you are on the other side of it. It's already happened. From that position, you can look back at the entire lifetime and see it all from a different perspective. Was there anyone in that lifetime that you know now in your present lifetime? If there is you will make the connection.

(Pause 30 seconds)

Every lifetime has a lesson, every lifetime has a purpose. As you looked at that lifetime, what was the lesson to be learned? What did you learn from that lifetime? Trust anything that comes into your mind.

(Pause 30 seconds)

Alright, now we're going to turn around and we're going to come back into this room. I'm going to count to ten and on the count of ten, you will be wide awake and feeling wonderful all over, remembering everything you have seen, so you can write it down. It will be in your memory so you can write it down.

You are becoming conscious of this room again; you are back here in this room. And, as I count to ten, you will be back in your body and can open your eyes and remembering what you have seen.

1, 2 you're beginning to breathe a little faster, the blood's beginning to circulate a little faster because you're beginning to wake up now.

3, 4 becoming aware of the physical body; very much aware of the physical body. You can move your arms and legs around, and get the blood circulating again because you are back here now and you are beginning to wake up now.

5, 6 you are becoming aware of the sounds in the room. You know there are people sitting around. You're very much aware of your physical surroundings. Because you're oriented back here now in this time and this place. And you're waking up now.

7, 8 you're coming up very nicely now, very nicely.

9, 10 wide awake, wide awake, feeling wonderful all over and remembering everything that you saw so you can write it down.

Now, I want you to write it down. Don't talk to anyone until you put it down. (Give them 5 minutes)

Now, does anyone want to share?
